The development and statement related to advising and career counseling is embedded in Criterion 4.0 Faculty, Staff and Students.

Criteria 4.4 states that there shall be available a clearly explained and accessible academic advising system for students, as well as readily available career and placement advice

Documentation required includes descriptions of both student advising and career counseling as well as information about student satisfaction with these services.

Advising for CEOMPH students is available through their university's Program Coordinator, while career advising can be sought from the Program Coordinators; it is also available from the CEOMPH program office, and the program web site. Additional, ongoing sources of advising and counseling are provided in the Capstone 1 course and via various social media.

Students and alumni are surveyed on a regular basis and satisfaction with advising and career counseling are among the measured parameters. Satisfaction scores on these measures is lower than on other measures.
